

Reflection
Adapted from John O'Donohue's
Walking on the Pastures of Wonder

The divine light works very tenderly with human freedom.

The light will never fail us.

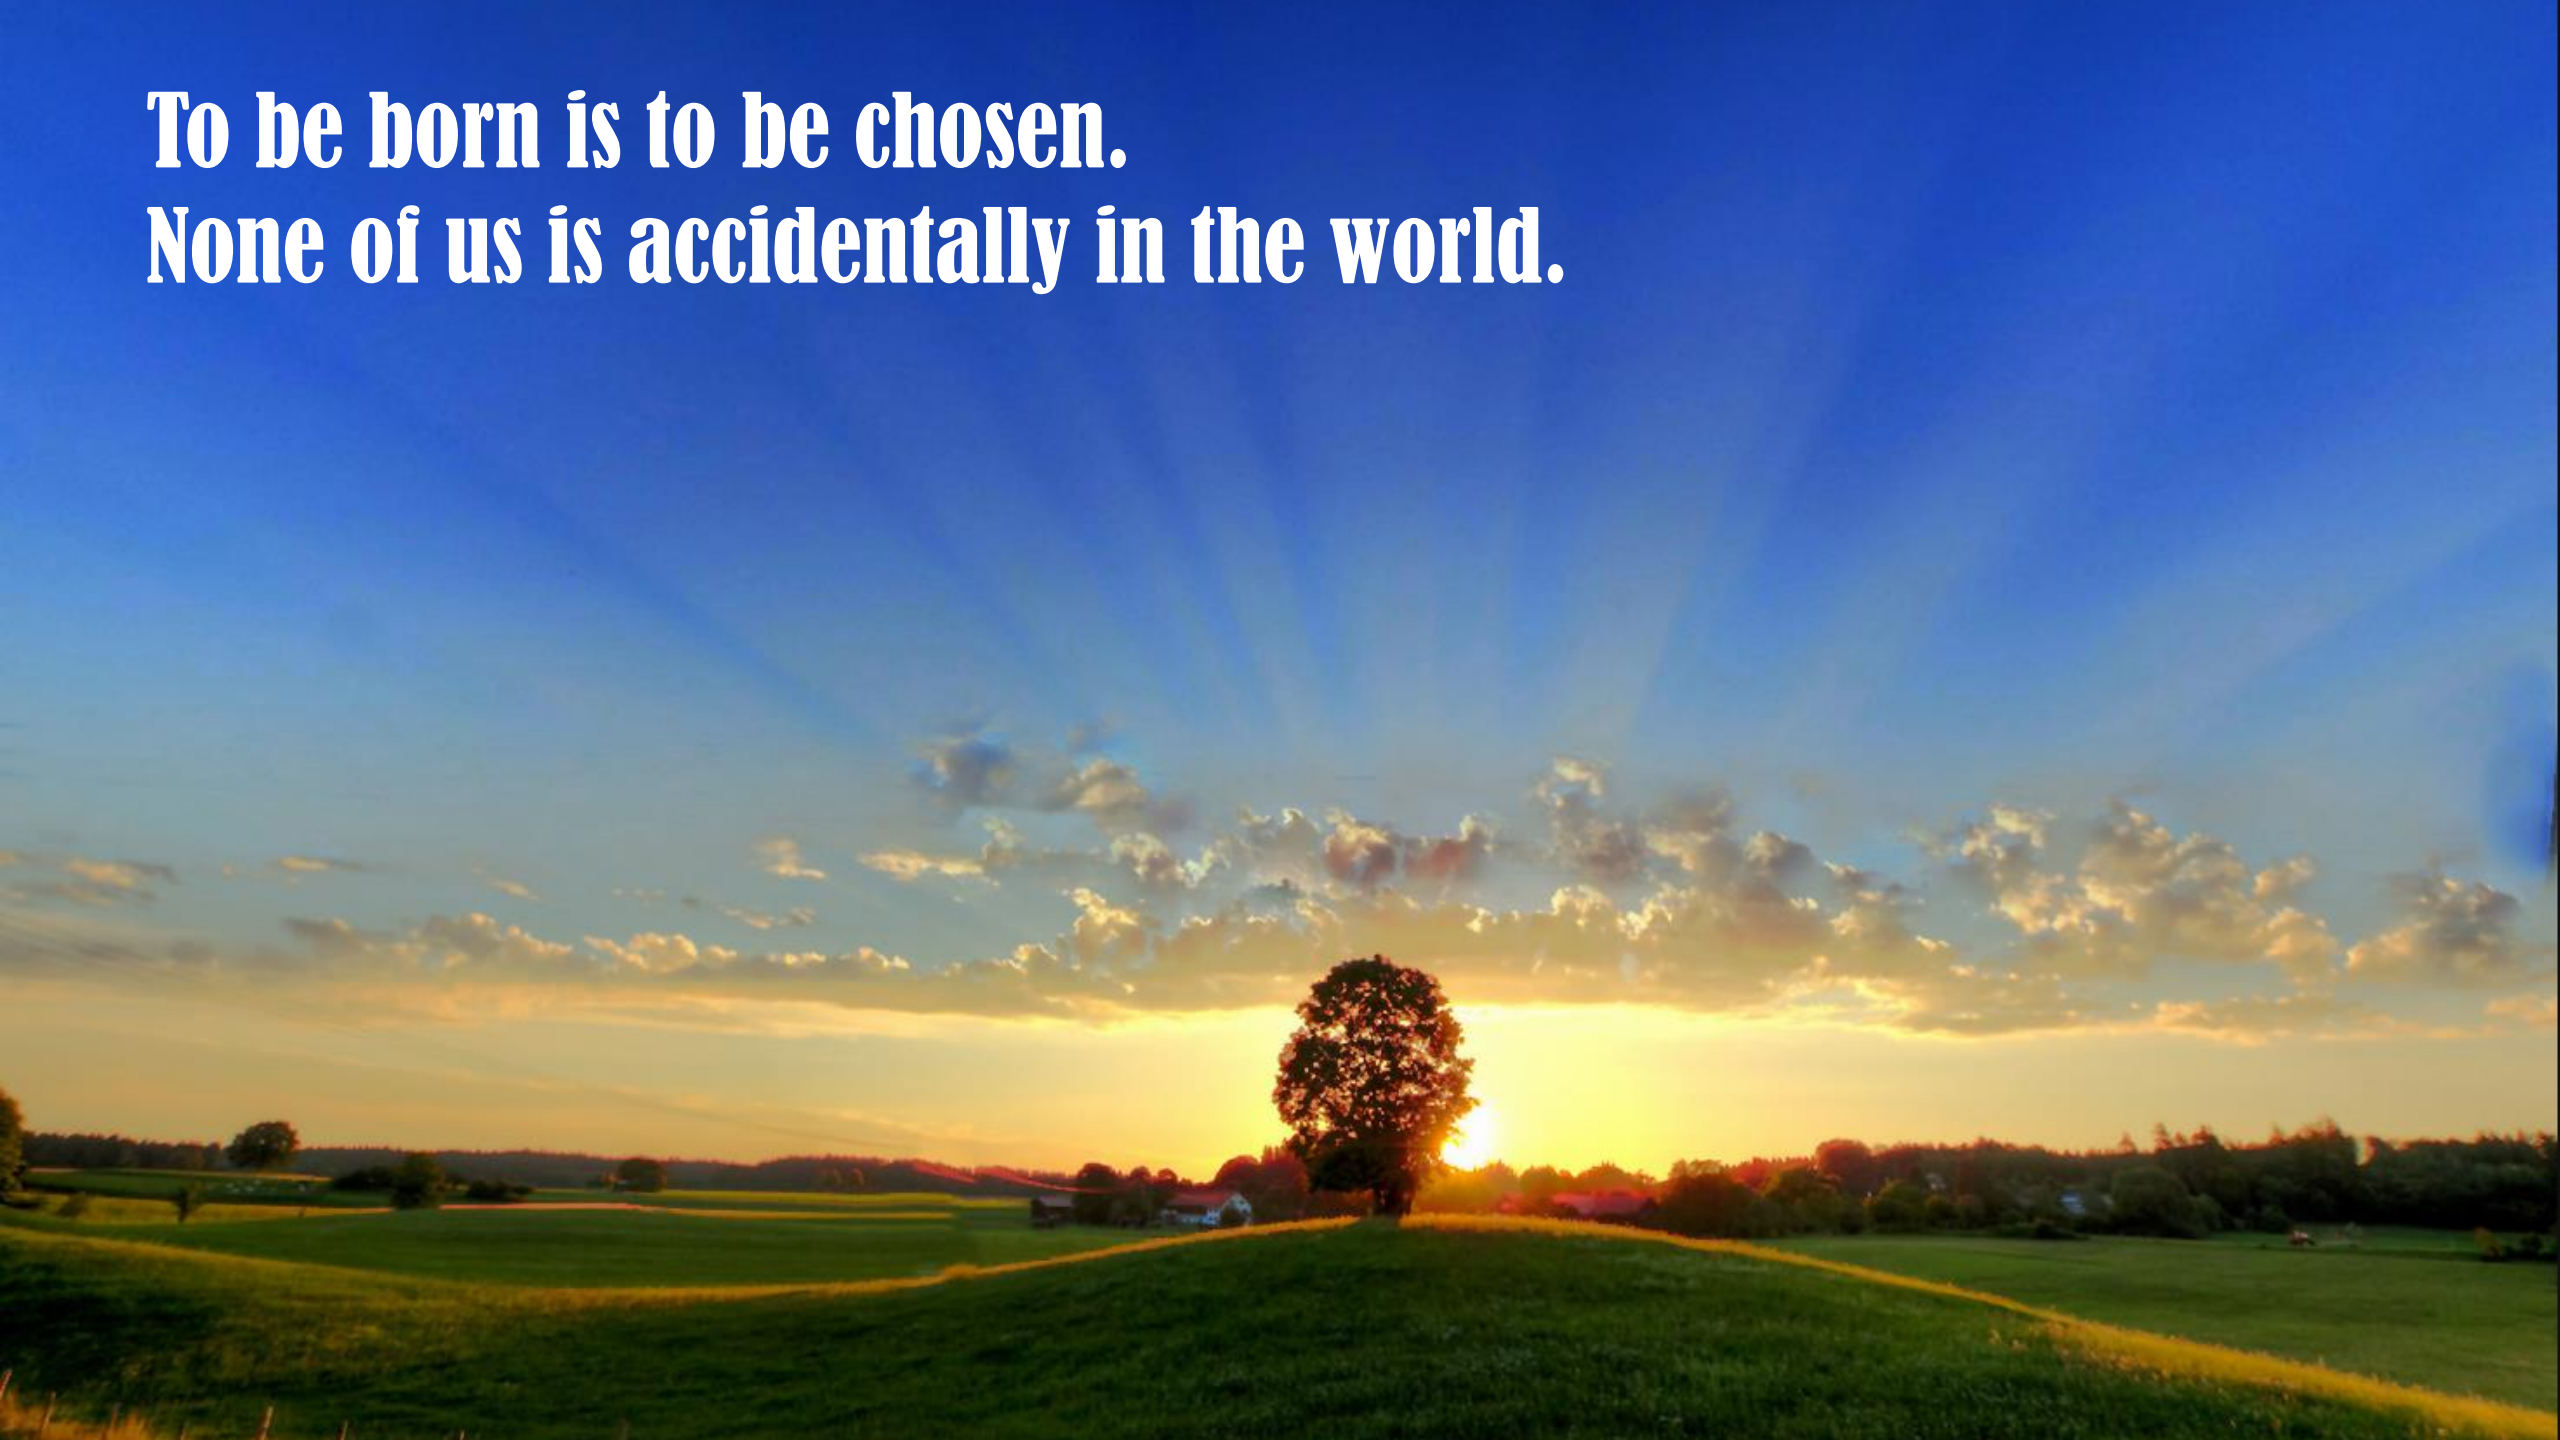

We are always on our way from darkness into light.

We are no strangers to darkness and we are special friends of the light.

To be born is to be chosen.
None of us is accidentally in the world.

One of the wisdoms of living a full life is to try and sense what it is we were sent here for.

There are limitless possibilities within each of us.

We were sent here to search for the divine light in our hearts and when we find it, we are meant to give it away generously and courageously.
